Fruits of Love and Hope

ou did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you to go and bear fruit – fruit that will last.” (John 15:16)

These words which Jesus spoke to his disciples are particularly appropriate for us 2000 years later, as we begin to reflect on our Christian journey in the season of Lent. Lent is a time for considering what God is calling us to do in our lives and for ABM, it is a particularly appropriate time to share stories of faith-bearing-fruit within our own Anglican Church of Australia and in our Partner churches overseas.

During the season of Lent, ABM provides resources to parishes and groups to tell more stories of the exciting work of the Anglican Church as it seeks to bear fruit: fruit of love and hope, fruit of improved health and greater educational opportunities, fruit of strengthened communities and greater advocacy for justice.

Inside this edition of Partners you’ll find information about our Lent resources (see pages 6 and 7), and also some of the ways in which your generous donations help to bear fruit around the world.

Lent is also, traditionally, a time of fasting. When I was growing up, I understood the concept of fasting as a strict penitence and denial, something like the poor character in the film Chocolat who longs for jam on his croissant. It was only later that I began to see fasting as a positive way of offering up something small to God, to say – ‘I don’t really need this little thing because I affirm that God provides all things’.

ABM’s Fast Food Fast is an opportunity to offer up those extra coffees, salad wraps or muffins to God, and to donate the money saved to the work of our Partners as they seek to bear fruit that will last. This year, the staff of ABM have taken on the challenge ourselves. Will I stare longingly at the coffee cart on my morning walk to work? Perhaps, but the $3 I save each day will add up to an amount which could provide something much more meaningful for the Melanesian Brothers in PNG, or villagers in the Philippines. Will you join us? (See pages 6 and 7 for more details.)

Linda Kurti, Executive Director

We apologise: In the last edition of Partners, ABM incorrectly stated that the Rt. Rev. Ted Mosby was the first bishop of the Torres Strait Island. We offer our apologies to the family of the late Rt. Rev. Kiwami Dai, and acknowledge his significant contribution to the life and ministry of the Anglican Church in the Torres Strait and throughout Australia.

POSITIONS VACANT - IS GOD CALLING YOU?

The following are URGENTLY required by the Anglican Church of Papua New Guinea:

- MANAGER - FINANCE & ADMISTRATION (Vacant - needed urgently), Anglican National Office - Lae, Morobe Province - to work and train local level staff, assist in bringing various MYOB & Excel accounts up to date, and provide support to the current national office.

- POPONDOTA DIOCESAN SECRETARY (Vacant - needed urgently), Town of Popondetta – Oro Province

The Diocese continues to search for an able administrator (Word/Excel) - preferably also with some financial background to support the new Bishop - Joe Kopapa. To take up this important position within the largest of our Anglican Diocese in PNG, Bishop Joe has indicated that he would also be open to suggestions (at this time) of short-term mission people to ‘get things on track’ should they be capable.

- NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT MANAGER (Vacant - needed urgently) - location flexible/TBA

Following on from the contribution of John & Delia Rae who have returned to England - this position will be heavily involved with the Church Partnerships Program (CPP), working closely with the Health & Education sectors to refine current processes/reporting and build capacity across ACPNG.

- QUALIFIED WATER ENGINEER (Vacant - needed urgently) - to help install reliable water supplies for the benefit of Anglican health and education services, and the communities they serve, in remote rural and island areas.

- DOCTORS - Anglican Health Services (Vacant - needed urgently) to work in our 3 Anglican Health Centres, to contribute to the training of staff, and undertake periodic health ‘patrols’ to the surrounding rural communities.

The Church of Melanesia is looking for:

- HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS AT SELWYN COLLEGE – Senior classes in Maths, English, Geography and Science.

Bringing The Gospel Home and Empowering Women in Egypt

ABM’s National Auxiliary... Supporting the Work of our Partners

Tricia Graham National Auxiliary President

PROJECT

Last year’s Auxiliary project ‘Bringing The Gospel Home’ supporting Indigenous Ministry in Australia raised $43,003.37. The Auxiliary also donated $29,416.85 to ABM’s general funds.

This is a truly wonderful result and we say thank you to all who supported the Auxiliary in achieving it.

The exciting Auxiliary Project for 2007 is “Empowering Egyptian Women”. This project promotes the welfare of women, who face discrimination at many levels in their society.

The Auxiliary has not had a project in Egypt before, so it will be most interesting to learn how our Partner Church works in this country and how the Auxiliary’s support will enable them to continue to extend their ministry. We are confident that we can raise $45,000 in 2007 and so help the Diocese of Egypt as it seeks to break the cycle of discrimination for women in the country.

To learn more about this new and exciting project, please contact your local Auxiliary representative, see the project information on ABM’s website www.abmission.org and follow the path to the project, or contact the Auxiliary’s National Secretary, Carole Russell by phone on 1300 302 663 (Sydney 9264 1021) or e-mail cmr@abm.asn.au

A Blooming miracle strikes for the second time... don’t miss it!

If you have admired it in a friend’s garden, or forgot to order one last year, now is the time to order your Auxiliary Rose “A Blooming Miracle”. If you have not seen one, be assured it is a very beautiful, sweet-smelling rose.

This Rose was especially grown for the Auxiliary and the name was chosen from 810 entries in a competition held last year.

Delivery of the Rose will be early in July, so use the order form and get in quick. We have 310 orders already and there will be only 1,000 roses grown this year. And remember a percentage of the cost of the rose goes to ABM for ministry with our Partners. Don’t miss out.

YES, I would like to order _______ of the brand new ABM Auxiliary Rose, ‘A Blooming Miracle’ at only $20 per rose.

Delivery is free for orders of 10 or more to your address. So why not get a group of your friends together or hand out order forms in your parish/group, nominate a central collection point (for pick up) and place your order for 10 or more.

Only want one? Just want to have one delivered to you? Please add an additional delivery charge of $3 per rose (and provide us with your address).

I would also like to make a donation of $________to the work of the Anglican Board of Mission (optional).

How do you relay a message to a parish that is 300km from the nearest road and nine (9) days walk from the nearest telephone? To Doris Gideon in Aipo Rongo Diocesan Office at Mount Hagen, it’s all in a day’s work.

How about controlling income and expenses for 39 parishes, dozens of Diocesan workers, and donors from all over the world? Evangeline Begin at the Anglican Diocesan office in Popondetta can take a shoebox full of scrappy receipts and make it sing.

Across the Anglican Church of Papua New Guinea (ACPNG), people like Doris and Evangeline labour tirelessly to keep the church operational. Their titles are unglamorous (like Accounts Clerk or Bookkeeper) and their work is unglorified, but without them, the Anglican Church across the country would come to a grinding and messy halt. These are the people who ensure there’s enough diesel to keep the Diocesan utility running and enough money set aside in case a priest’s child faces a medical emergency. There is no room for extravagance; these people know what shoe-string budgets are all about. They make a tiny amount of money go a very long way.

Good co-ordination and administration is the lynchpin of a well functioning church. Accurate accounting records and forward planning aren’t just fluffy niceties that give number crunchers warm tingles. Good administration gives Dioceses the confidence to forge ahead with bold new initiatives. It harnesses the God-given creative potential of people that might lie dormant without leadership and direction.

Poor administration on the other hand, can be devastating. Imagine the tangled mess of a diocese that has no idea of their ministry finances, or the state of their parishes. Valuable leadership time is exhausted in an endless web of administrative quagmire. Suspicion and distrust characterise people’s relationships; and new growth is suffocated.

ABM recognises that the story of Doris undertaking an accounting course, or Evangeline doing specialised management training, might not sound like the cutting edge of mission to most Anglicans in Australia. But the truth is that ABM’s role in facilitating professional development for the people who make the church in PNG function, is achieving splendid results both now and into the future.

The responsibilities that people like Doris and Evangeline take on in the church are often grossly disproportionate to their own training and experience. They perform these jobs for next to no money, and far less than what they could earn in the private sector. They often work with the same dedication and self-sacrifice as an evangelist living among mountain tribes. By working with the church in PNG to assist the growth and development of their own leaders, ABM is helping to build strong foundations that grow a healthy and vibrant church.

There is no room for extravagance; these people know what shoe-string budgets are all about. They make a tiny amount of money go a very long way.

In the words of Archbishop James Ayong: “It is very important that the present Account Clerks and Diocesan Secretaries be offered opportunities to be up-skilled. The part that ABM plays in this particular growth is very important, because it is helping ACPNG to become more self sufficient.”

Resources for Lent 2007

ABM Lent packages have been sent to all parishes that ordered them. In it you will find:

1. An ABM DVD which contains stories from our Partners
   3. School Days. Education in PNG.

2. An ABM CD containing resources for use during Lent (and other times of the year) to explore mission and the journey of faith. You will find the following on the disc:
   - Weekly Bulletin inserts containing a story and photos from our Partners, a prayer, an affirmation and an action component for Ash Wednesday, each Sunday during Lent, Good Friday and Easter Day. These are in A5 format and designed to be copied and inserted into your church bulletin and used during worship.
   - Sermon Notes for the Gospel passage for each Sunday during Lent. Designed to offer resources for sermon preparation and to bring the Gospel passages alive in a different way.
   - ABM Sunday Resources - Why not designate a particular Sunday as an ABM Sunday - either during Lent or at some other time of year. There is a liturgy for your use.
   - Images - PowerPoint photos which accompany the focus of the weekly bulletin material, for use in reflections or as a focus for worship and prayers during Lent.

3. Envelopes for Lent and Good Friday
   If you ordered them. (There are still some of these available. If you require more please contact ABM.)

4. Poster for Lent and Good Friday
   If you ordered them. (There are still some of these available. If you require more please contact ABM.)

5. FAST FOOD FAST
   This Lent, ABM is inviting you, your school or your church to take up a fast that will benefit you - and help to change the world! We’re continuing our very own FAST FOOD FAST, a chance to give up what you don’t need whilst making sure others get what they do need. It’s as simple as this:
   i. You take it on over the 40 days of Lent. You contribute the money you would have spent on fast food to ABM. That pizza, fish and chips or cappuccino money that you would have spent goes into a tin, jar or chakao (see page 7) and you eat something cheaper, healthier and home-made.
   ii. After Easter you send us a donation for the total amount you haven’t spent on fast food. You can donate money through your school or parish (make sure it’s labelled for the FAST FOOD FAST) or directly to ABM by cheque, money order or credit card or on our website.
   iii. We’ll make sure that your ‘junk’ food money is used to bring justice, joy and hope to people in need.

Files for printing material to promote the FAST FOOD FAST are on the CD or can be ordered in bulk - along with stickers, posters and silicon wrist bands. Resources are free and silicon wrist bands can be purchased for $2 each. (Or for large Parish/group orders of 200 or more you can purchase the bands for the wholesale cost of $1 each and sell them for $2 – making more money for ABM’s FAST FOOD FAST.)

Other Resources available from ABM

6. Crosses from Jerusalem - an Easter Gift for a different Easter Celebration
   These Crosses are hand-made in Bethlehem from Olive Wood and have been supplied through our Partner Church. The Cross is a reminder of the Easter story: Crucifixion, Resurrection, and the ongoing call to mission in God’s world.

   - 3 x 3cm Crosses = $5.00 each

On-line Reflections
Click on to the ABM website at www.abmission.org and subscribe to receive a reflection from ABM for each day of Lent. These reflections can be used for your own or family prayers. Some people forward them to friends and family for their use as well. Some parishes copy a week of reflections in advance and make them available for worship attendees to use during the week.

Gift Cards – also a great Easter Gift:
Want to give something different this Easter instead of a chocolate egg? Then why not support ABM’s Partners and buy one of our Gift Cards.
For $5 or more per card you can give a gift that counts and will make a difference – for example $7.00 will provide a book for a village woman in PNG to participate in a two-year literary course.

Six Stories for Lent

1 National Youth Ministry in Papua New Guinea - Planning for the Future

Whether you are in Kimbe, or Manua, or Madang, people are talking about the impact that Diocesan Youth Coordinators are having, thanks to a little bit of money from ABM that allows them to travel around, building connections and passing on skills.

The National Youth Ministry initiative seeks to take the benefits of increased cooperation in youth ministry to a whole new level. This project will unite the youth within the Anglican Church of Papua New Guinea, helping them to gather and share expertise and resources. ABM is working alongside the Anglican Church of Papua New Guinea to help sow the seeds of a future where young people are encouraged and alive through the words and actions of the Gospel.

2 Fishery Support Program – The Philippines

‘Give a man a fish and he’ll eat for a day; teach him how to fish and he’ll eat for a lifetime,’ so goes the popular saying. This may have been true 20, maybe even 10 years ago, but these days small stock fishermen in coastal areas in the Philippines spend most of their days and their nights at sea and still catch barely enough to put food on the table. Competition from commercial fishing, depleted fish stocks, typhoons (an average of 20 per year) which make it impossibly dangerous to go to sea, the lack of capital to buy fishing and processing equipment and just the simple cycle of the moon which can result in no fish to catch, all contribute to worsen the plight of these workers of the sea.

ABM in partnership with the Episcopal Church in the Philippines (ECP), is supporting a new program which provides much needed aid to households in fishing communities, so that they can improve their livelihood. Fishing nets, drying implements, crates for storing fish and money to buy ice to refrigerate the catch for market are just some of the basic items the ECP will provide with help from Australian Anglicans through ABM.

3 ABM’s Education Program in PNG

A little girl in Australia, as a right, can expect to attend a kindergarten, primary and secondary school, with the option of some Tertiary education as well.

What can Florence, a little girl in rural Papua New Guinea expect?

In some areas there are no accessible schools so she would grow up in the village with no formal education at all. If she lived in another location there may be a four classroom school, built by the village people with church support, but only one teacher, and so miss out again. Teachers prefer to work in the towns with access to services for themselves and their families.

Fortunately, the Anglican Education Department, funded by ABM and AusAID under the Church Partnership Program, is addressing this problem.

The Rural Teachers Support Program aims to assist with the relocation costs and provides a yearly bonus to teachers who stay in rural and remote areas for one, two and three years. This will act as an incentive to attract teachers and graduates to where the majority of people live, and enable little girls such as Florence to receive at least a basic primary education.

4 Yarrabah and Wontulp-Bi-Buya

ABM’s work in North Queensland is about supporting Indigenous Anglicans as they respond to God’s call upon their lives. In Yarrabah and at Wontulp-Bi-Buya College evidence of God’s reconciling call is all around. Activity and excitement characterise these communities as a new generation of Indigenous Christian leadership is trained and put to work.

At Wontulp-Bi-Buya College, Indigenous theological lecturers open the eyes of eager students to the lessons and truths of the Gospel, at the intersection of Christianity and culture. Theology and the Bible itself come to life as they are interpreted through cultures familiar to the diverse communities from which the students come.

In one of those communities, Yarrabah, current and former Wontulp students are proving that their training was much more than head knowledge. They are being called to the centre of the community; acknowledged by all as a beacon of light. Anglicans in Yarrabah are also active in running youth programs, crime prevention work, health services and community leadership. There is also the exciting ministry of the Yarrabah dancers who, with ABM, have travelled throughout Australia, sharing their testimonies and dance with Indigenous and non-Indigenous communities alike.
Refugees in Ethiopia, on the border of Sudan

These people are housed in hundreds of huts on land that has been appropriated from a different tribal group, causing much friction. Intertribal conflicts have caused hundreds of deaths over the last couple of years. However God is at work and from a small beginning of one expatriate congregation there are now 32 parishes on or near this dangerous border area.

At Gambella on the border the church has two distinct congregations separated on tribal lines, but by a miracle of God’s grace they are able to welcome visitors as one combined group. This would have been unthinkable in the past and any coming together would have resulted in bloodshed.

“These Christians are heroes” says the Bishop of the Diocese of Egypt. They love the Lord with all their hearts and thoughts and with what they give to the Lord. They have a great sense of reliance on God in all parts of their lives.

Vanuatu Inclusive Communities

In the Solomon Islands the civil society and good governance have been seriously compromised especially since the violent conflicts and lawlessness in the immediate past. Eighty five percent of the people live in rural villages where the economy is depressed, since the smallholders are now unable to access export markets for their produce and services such as health, education and infrastructure development are lacking or of a poor quality.

One notable strength in the Solomon Islands is the church. ABM, together with AusAID are working closely with the Church of Melanesia in providing workshops targeting seven thousand local people.

It is proposed that this very successful program will be introduced into Vanuatu in 2007. The aim of the Inclusive Community Project is to bring all the community members together, empower them to share responsibilities equally, listen to each other and make decisions together in order to build a better, stronger and united community.

The program includes:

- Participatory Community Management workshops
- Community Capacity Strengthening Activities – such as Women’s Literacy Programs, Youth Life skills and peace conferencing; and
- Institutional Capacity Strengthening – Conducting workshops for bursars, treasurers and diocesan staff.

... And one for Good Friday. The Anglican Church in Nablus, Palestinian Territories

Imagine that your parish is in the centre of a city of 200,000 people, 199,000 of them Muslim. Imagine that your parish is in a city that has been surrounded by military checkpoints for the last six or seven years and that to enter or leave your city involved waits of hours or days… or months… or years.

Imagine that the streets you walk each day are the haunt of angry young men with access to guns.

Imagine that, many nights, you wake to the sound of tanks and jeeps rumbling past your house – or even worse the sound of gunfire.

Imagine that you live in Nablus and are part of the remnant Christian Arab Population. You as an Anglican are a minority within a minority within a minority.

What do you do?

If you are the Anglican Church in Nablus, you build. You say to the population-through action rather than words – that you are here to stay. You keep your hospital open to serve the poor. You open a new church building to proclaim that God is faithful and that this is your home. The Reverend Hosam Naoum led the church in Nablus right through the terrors of the second Intifada. “Building a church in Rafida and in Nablus,” says Hosam “is a symbol that we as a church give our utmost to keep our community alive and to preserve it. The church is a sign of newness. A new church means new life. And it means new hope for the people that we are here as living stones of the Holy Land. The church gives us self confidence.”

Across the Middle East Christians face extreme conditions and situations every day, year after year. This is just one story of hope in the face of despair. How do they survive? They trust God.
In a small village in Papua New Guinea that I visited recently I met a man called Mark who recounted the death of Leah, a lady who was his wife’s relative.

Leah was previously married and conceived a child before the death of her first husband. Neither Leah nor her community knew the cause of her husband’s death, and sometime after Leah went on to marry again to a man named Peter and they raised her child – a little girl called Mary.

Sadly not long after, Leah started getting sick on and off and visited the hospital on several occasions, her relatives became suspicious... but unfortunately Leah died before her illness was diagnosed.

After the burial, family and community members suspected her second husband Peter was infected with HIV/AIDS and started to distance themselves. People started pointing fingers and whispering and Peter was socially isolated from the extended family, neighbours and the larger community. He was pretty much alone with only the comfort of the little girl Mary.

Fortunately Mark’s son (Leah’s relatives by marriage), had attended a Peer Education Training run by the Anglican Health Service in the village. He was able to educate his family on HIV/AIDS awareness, and Mark’s involvement in the HIV/AIDS school curriculum program also helped to increase the family’s understanding and knowledge.

Mark’s family are now very aware of HIV and AIDS and its many facets, they don’t treat Peter as a social outcast, but instead provide care and support to him and Mary. This includes emotional and physical support by all members of the family – even the children help out by cutting his grass and generally keeping an eye on both of them.

Mark told me that the stigma and discrimination attached to HIV/AIDS is so severe that it takes away family, friends and sometimes it even accompanies someone to death. People are also unlikely to go for treatment due to the prevailing stigma and discrimination surrounding HIV/AIDS.

(Names have been changed to protect the family’s identity and also the location is purposely not mentioned.)

Am I my brother’s keeper?

In PNG the stigma and discrimination attached to HIV and AIDS is so severe that it takes away family, friends and sometimes it even accompanies someone to death.

From Faith Masila, ABM’s Pacific Project Officer

With the help of the Anglican Health Service of PNG (AHS) the rural dioceses are now gaining the experience and skills to coordinate complex HIV & AIDS programs. The Training of Peer Education Trainers (TOPET) has built the capacity of three (New Guinea Islands, Aipo Rongo and Popondota) rural dioceses to have their own Peer Education (PE) trainers organising and carrying out the PE training in their local communities.

This HIV awareness program relies on people at the village level to continue discussing issues relating to HIV & AIDS, in the hope that HIV transmission will slow down and the stigma associated with being HIV positive or having AIDS, will decrease.
